Catholic Relics Come to Life Online

It all started with Tom Serafin looking for a relic for himself to help him with writing. From there he fell in love with relics from the Catholic Church and his passion turned into one of the largest points online to connect with relics.

From all parts of the world about 800 members have joined to share their similar interest. Relics can be "acquired" (not bought) from parts of the world that would never have been possible before the Internet.
